COURSE DELIVERY AND MEETINGS: This course is being conducted where on specified weeks we will meet in person as a class; and the other weeks where we will not meet in person but where you will be required to submit assignments online. The key takeaway is that whether we are meeting as a class in a given week or not, each week there are assignments and you will need to be engaged. For the schedule of in-class meeting dates versus on-line only weeks, refer to the Schedule of Activities.

IN-CLASS are those dates where we physically will meet on campus as a class; this will occur on scheduled Thursday(s) from 6:00 pm to 9:15 pm.

ON-LINE weeks are when we will not meet as a class, but rather individually in the on-line classroom where there are assigned quizzes and discussion threads to interact in. Participation in the online classroom represents a significant portion of your grade. In addition there will also be course material and resources found only in the on-line classroom. To access the on-line classroom go to the website <http://sbmonline.ndnu.edu/> and click on this course title to enroll (username and password same as CampusPortal).

ACADEMIC HONESTY: Academic honesty is a cornerstone of our values at NDNU. If any words or ideas used in an assignment submission do not represent your original words or ideas, you must cite all relevant sources and make clear the extent to which such sources were used. Words or ideas that require citation include, but are not limited to, all hard copy or electronic publications, whether copyrighted or not, and all verbal or visual communication when the content of such communication clearly originates from an identifiable source. Consult the NDNU Student Handbook regarding consequences of misrepresenting your work.

PRIVACY and CONFIDENTIALITY: One of the highlights of the NDNU academic experience is that students often use real-world examples from their organizations in class discussions and in their written work. However, it is imperative that students not share information that is confidential, privileged, or proprietary in nature.

LEARNING and OTHER DISABILITIES: If you have a learning disability or other circumstance that requires accommodations in this class, you must bring it to the attention of Program for Academic Support and Services (PASS) to arrange for possible accommodations (650-508-3670).

CLASS PARTICIPATION and ATTENDANCE: Your attendance is very important to your studies at the University, and as such, online participation is mandatory as well is attendance for our scheduled in-class meetings. Non-attendance or lack of participation in the class will be considered during the grading process.

WORKLOAD: In addition to class attendance, you should plan to devote approximately ten hours per week per unit outside of class for readings, assignments, and quiz/exam preparation. The distribution of average weekly hours of instruction/study for this class is estimated at:

Distribution of Average Weekly Hours of Instruction/Study = Total of 13 per week

Classroom:	3
Readings & Research	3
Assignments	5
Test (quiz/exam) Preparation	2
TOTAL WOKLOAD HOURS per SEMESTER	182

WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS: The School of Business and Management requires the use of the American Psychological Association (APA) publication guidelines as a standard for all papers.

LATE ASSIGNMENTS: Assignments are to be completed and submitted by the end-of-day (midnight) by the dates specified. Assignments not completed fully and on time are considered late. Late assignments will be accepted only for one week after the due date; after which time the assignment will not be accepted. Late assignments scores will incur a reduction of up to 50% of point value.

SYLLABUS UPDATES: Refer to this syllabus for course assignments. However the course syllabus and schedule are subject to change in the event of extenuating circumstances. You will be notified of any changes made to the syllabus. In all circumstances University policies will be strictly adhered to.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

OnLine Quizzes: There are ten quizzes associated to chapters in our textbook. During weeks when chapters are assigned, quizzes can be accessed in Moodle. It is highly advisable that you read the chapters before taking the quizzes. Individual quizzes are worth 2 pts total each. However you will have an additional opportunity to retake each quiz within the week assigned to improve your score.

Discussion Questions: Throughout the semester there are online forums containing fifteen time-sensitive Discussion Questions (DQs) regarding issues relevant to our class. Participation points will be awarded based upon your ability to provide a substantive analysis of the material. This means going beyond just providing a synopsis; rather it means identifying the relevancy (i.e., pros and cons) of the material and what salient information was noteworthy in context of this class.

Team Briefing: Successful teamwork and collaboration are the keys to the success of post-industrial organizations! Small teams of 3-5 students will be formed to explore and analyze selected topics in organizational behavior (see list below). Each team member is responsible for accomplishing cooperatively and on time a briefing that demonstrates the team’s scholarly knowledge and ability to present in a professional environment (i.e., power point slides). The goal of the team project will be to prepare and present a 15 minute briefing to the class that provides a summary of their selected topic as well as all relevant management and organizational theories that are supported by and/or contradicted by this topic. [This is team graded activity]

Briefing topics which teams can select from

Applying Situational Leadership Strategies	Managing Generation X and Y Together
Holacracy: fad or future for Orgs	Poor vs. Good Management: Strategies
How to Instill Ethical Management	Strategies for Motivating Employees
How to Manage Remote Employee	Teams vs Teamwork Dynamics
Human Resource vs Human Capital	Training Employees to be Empowered
Managing Change in Organizations	Using MBO (Management by Objectives)

Individual Paper: The term paper is the principal experiential learning element of the course. The individual student paper is designed to test your ability to understand and translate theoretical research on organization theory to specific implications for any kind of management issues and concerns. Select a topic (i.e., theory, management issue, or concern) of your choosing that you consider valuable, interesting, and related to the material covered in this course (team briefing topics are off-limits). Your focus should be about what the real-world implications are to an organization. Research any theories that might be used to explain and deal with your topic in order to provide insight into the material. The requirement is for each student to conduct independent research about your selected topic with the goal of submitting minimum 15 page paper by the assigned due date. Research efforts need to be scholarly reflecting a minimum of 10 peer reviewed journals and the paper formatted per APA guidelines.

Exams: There will be two required examinations in this course:

- Midterm Exam: This will entail an open book 20 question test (i.e., combination multiple choice, true/false) based upon content covered in the assigned readings and/or lectures.
- Final Exam: This will entail an open book 20 question test (i.e., combination multiple choice, true/false) based upon content covered since the midterm; including assigned readings and lectures.
