Top Ten Reasons To Attend NDNU Master of Science in Clinical Psychology Program
Marriage and Family Therapist; Professional Clinical Counselor

1. Train to be a licensed psychotherapist who is eligible for two licenses (MFT and LPCC), pursue doctoral training, or become an unlicensed mental health professional at an innovative, holistic, and integrative program that emphasizes community engagement, diversity, inclusivity, and social justice.

2. Learn from reputable professors with a variety of clinical specialties who are actively practicing.

3. Endowed scholarships and flexible scheduling in the afternoon, evening, and weekend allowing you to work while pursuing a graduate degree with higher earning potential.

4. Personalized advising and contemporary training in relational psychotherapy; marriage and family therapy; integrative psychology; psychoanalysis; mindfulness; positive psychology; humanistic psychology; Jungian psychology; psychopharmacology; geropsychology; child psychotherapy; trauma; addictions; eating disorders; spirituality; expressive arts; somatics; and more.

5. Build lifelong relationships with professors, students, and alumni who become valued colleagues.

6. Join a community of diverse students from “career changers” to new graduates to international students with varied backgrounds in high tech; education; child development; social services; law; business; marketing; finance; performing and visual arts; literature; religion; biology; neuroscience; medicine, and more.

7. High first time pass rates on licensing exams. Receive top-notch clinical training and our community benefits from over 20,000 hours of mental health services provided annually.

8. Join alumni who are supported through opportunities for networking, professional development, job postings, and mentoring.

9. Become part of a group of professors, students, and alumni who are publishing, presenting, editing, training, serving on boards, and engaged with their community.

10. Secure meaningful employment in private practice, hospitals, medical centers, and community organizations including One Life; StarVista; San Mateo County Health; Edgewood; CHAC; YMCA; Bill Wilson Center; AbilityPath; Youth Service Bureau; East Bay Agency for Children; Stanford; Kaiser; and Fremont Hospital.

“NDNU has a gold standard when it comes to training empathetic, prepared psychotherapists.”

Suzanne Hughes, MFT, LPCC
Executive Director, One Life Counseling Center

LEARN MORE BY CONTACTING:
NDNU Graduate Admissions
grad.admit@ndnu.edu | 650-508-3600