

Become a Writing Center Tutor!

Tutoring in the Writing Center is both challenging and fun. Working one-on-one with other NDNU students, you can share your expertise, provide encouragement, and further your own understanding of English grammar and composition. The experience you gain will support your professional development no matter what career you pursue.

The Writing Center offers several options for students interested in tutoring:

EN149T/549T: Teaching Assistant: Writing Center Tutoring

Earn credit toward graduation. May be taken for 1-3 units.

Work-study Tutors

The Writing Center employs several work-study students each semester.

Senior Tutors

The Writing Center offers several paid positions each semester to graduate students or others with a B.A..

Scheduling is flexible, and undergraduate tutors have the opportunity to work closely with English faculty.

We are always interested in talking with potential tutors. If you think you might like to tutor in the Writing Center, please contact Sandra Bernhard, Writing Center Coordinator, at 650-592-3558 or sbernhard@ndnu.edu.